If you are interested in service learning and civic engagement, you may be interested in attending the Washington Campus Compact Annual Network Meeting November 1-2, 2012

Washington Campus Compact Annual Network Meeting

The Annual Network Meeting will be held November 1-2, 2012 at the Talaris Conference Center in Seattle. This event will convene civic engagement and service-learning practitioners and partners from throughout the Washington Campus Compact network. Participants will have the opportunity to engage in professional development opportunities, network with colleagues, and share and exchange campus and community-based resources.

Thursday November 1st: “Sustainability and Service Learning” Faculty Institute is designed for faculty members and their campus and/or community partners who are interested in developing a service-learning component in a course that incorporates sustainability concepts and/or deepening a service-learning project through the integration of sustainability content.

Friday November 2nd: The Dialogue on A Crucible Moment: College Learning & Democracy’s Future offers all interested participants in-depth conversation and exploration of a recent report released by the National Task Force on Civic Learning and Democratic Engagement. A keynote address by renowned Seattle author, educator and civic entrepreneur, Eric Liu, will set the stage for large and small group discussions on a variety of related topics regarding the public purpose of higher education.

Keynote Speaker : Eric Liu

Eric served as a White House speechwriter for President Bill Clinton and later as the President's deputy domestic policy adviser. After the White House, he was an executive at the digital media company RealNetworks. In 2002 he was named one of the World Economic Forum's Global Leaders of Tomorrow. Eric lives in Seattle, where he teaches at the University of Washington and hosts an acclaimed television interview program called Seattle Voices. In addition to speaking regularly at venues across the country, Eric also serves on the boards of the Seattle Public Library, the League of Education Voters, and the Swedish Medical Center Foundation. Additionally, he is on the national leadership councils for Communities in Schools and the Association of American Colleges and Universities. He is a graduate of Yale College and Harvard Law School, and a proud Seattle Public Schools parent. For a preview of Eric's insightful ideas about citizenship, please view highlights from his keynote address at the 2012 15th Annual Continuums of Service Conference above.