Green River College international students have been admitted to hundreds of universities all over the US. Students gain the qualifications needed for admission at Green River College and transfer to top universities as third year juniors. GRC students can receive a University Transfer Pathway letter from one of the above universities at the time they are admitted to Green River, as follows:

1. Apply to GRC – Apply online (www.greenriver.edu/international) or on paper.
2. Select a university – Choose one University Transfer Pathway partner university and write it on your GRC application. Make sure the university you choose has your major (see below).
3. Receive the UTP partner university letter with your Green River admission letter and I-20.

Frequently asked questions:

Q – Will a University Transfer Pathway letter or statement help me get a US student visa?
A – It may help, but the main purpose of the program is to help you plan your academic program in the US. Be familiar with both GRC and the university when you apply for a visa. Visas cannot be guaranteed.

Q – Do I have to transfer to the university which issues me the letter?
A – No. You can transfer anywhere you want.

Q – Will the UTP partner school contact me?
A – It is up to the school. GRC will provide your contact information for the university to contact you.

Q – How much does this program cost?
A – It is free.

Q – Can I apply to a different UTP school later?
A – Yes. You can use UTP to transfer to any UTP partner school at any time.

Notes:

1. Conditional Guaranteed Admission (CGA) means admission is guaranteed if the conditions listed are fulfilled. A Designated Pathway (DP) means that the university has designated conditions by which admission is very likely, but not guaranteed, if the conditions are fulfilled.
2. English requirements – “T” = TOEFL; “I” = IELTS. E101 and E126/7/8 represent the two English composition courses that are generally taught by all colleges and universities in the US. Students must complete both of these classes to earn Associate Degrees in most majors, so they are not classes taken especially for admission to UTP partner schools. E101 is known at GRC as Engl&101. The English 126/7/8 are composition classes geared to humanities, social sciences and business/science respectively. Students would choose the right one for their majors.
3. Conditions of admission – Each cooperating university issues its own admissions letter with its conditions clearly outlined therein. The conditions of admission can change without notice, and take precedence over the information contained in this chart.
4. Impacted majors – “Impacted majors” are those in very popular fields where there are special admission requirements in addition to the guaranteed conditional admission requirements above. Architecture, business, engineering and nursing are often impacted majors. Check the websites to see which majors are impacted, and what their special requirements are. Note that many websites list “minimum” requirements for admission, which are often lower than the actual requirements by which students are actually accepted.
5. Transferable credits – These refer to college-level courses which generally transfer to universities. Most but not all academic classes numbered 100 or higher transfer. Read 104 is a commonly-taken GRC course numbered 100 or higher that does not transfer. Classes numbered lower than 100 are considered developmental courses and do not transfer. Most college students can earn 90 transferable quarters in two years, although they may need a summer quarter to do so.
6. Associate Degree – This can mean Associate in Business Administration, Associate of Arts or Associate in Science.
7. English composition courses – Engl&101 and one of English 126, 127 or 128, two classes in total, are the standard freshman and sophomore composition classes required by all US colleges and universities. English 126 is writing for humanities, 127 writing for social sciences, and 128 for science/engineering/business. Most international students take Engl 128.

8. Minimum GRC gpa – The minimum gpa required to earn a GRC Associate Degree is 2.0. Most international students do far better. In Fall 2015, the median GRC international student gpa was 3.5.

Dear GRCC Student,

Congratulations! We are delighted to inform you that you have been granted conditional admission to the University of Cincinnati (UC). UC is ranked as a top 25 public research university, invented Co-operative Education or “co-op” in 1906, and was recently ranked amongst the world’s most beautiful college campuses. We look forward to welcoming you to campus when you arrive!

To be considered for full admission to a Bachelor’s degree program at UC the following must be met:

- Completion of a GRCC Associate Degree that is compatible with a UC academic program or at least 90 transferable GRCC quarter credits (grades of C or higher)
- Evidence of English proficiency: completion of GRCC’s English &101 with a grade of 2.0 or better, iBT TOEFL 66, or IELTS 5.5
- GRCC minimum cumulative GPA 2.0
- Submission of the following admission-related documents to UC:
  - UC online application (including payment of application fee) https://www.uc.edu/apply
  - Official GRCC transcript and complete academic records for all other post-secondary coursework
  - A copy of your I-94 and current GRCC I-20
- Students who earn an Associates degree and graduate with a 3.25 will be considered for the UC Global Scholarship—the average amount awarded to qualified students is $5,000 per year

Please note that the above requirements satisfy general requirements for transfer admission to UC. Admission into competitive UC programs is not guaranteed and depends on specific program admission requirements and capacity

We recommend that you take advantage of the services offered by your International Student Advisor at GRCC to help guide you towards courses and credits that will transfer to UC. For answers to many of your questions, please visit the International Admissions Office website at http://www.admissions.uc.edu/international. If you have any other questions about UC, available academic programs, or would like to introduce yourself, please email us at international.admissions@uc.edu. Good luck in your studies at GRCC and we are excited for you to officially become a Bearcat!

Sincerely,

Thomas Canepa, Ed.D.
Associate Vice President for Admissions
