Medieval History

Medieval History 1
Tuesday, November 7th (10:00am - 12:00pm)
Auburn Center, Rm 230, Dan O’Gorman
Member Fee $29 (35913)
Non-Member Fee: $49 (35914)

Standardization serves as a powerful tool for understanding medieval history by providing a framework for comparing and analyzing various historical phenomena. Standardization allows for the identification of patterns, trends, and deviations, enabling researchers to draw meaningful conclusions about the past. In this lecture, we will look at the use of standardization as understood in the fields of engineering and sociology to look at things like weights and measures, coinage, language, and monastic law (outlining daily routines, duties, and disciplinary measures) to understand the formation of a unified cultural identity in Early Medieval England.

Medieval History 2
Tuesday, November 28th (10:00am - 12:00pm)
Auburn Center, Rm 230, Dan O’Gorman
Member Fee $29 (35915)
Non-Member Fee: $49 (35917)

In this class we will look at how the Medieval Period inspired the fields of politics, philosophy, literature, and film/television. We will explore the feudal system, the role of the Church, and the rise of nation-states. Medieval rulers sought to establish their legitimacy through various means, including religious endorsement, bloodline claims, and military conquest. We will discuss how modern political leaders legitimize their authority and the echoes of medieval practices. We will also talk about Medievalism in literature, film, and television from iconic works such as Tolkien’s “The Hobbit” and “The Lord of the Rings” to TV series such as “Game of Thrones,” and how these portrayals often blend historical accuracy with elements of fantasy, weaving tales of honor, chivalry, political intrigue, and quests for power. By analyzing these representations, we can identify the romanticized or distorted versions of medieval politics that have permeated our collective imagination.

Fused Glass: A life changing art form

Here is what our instructor, Diana Wendt has to say.

"Fused glass has been a life-changing art form for me. I discovered it's not only my passion, but it is also my calling. Fused glass has never been just a 'hobby', instead it became my livelihood to support myself and my beloved mother since 1996.

For almost 30 years, I've devoted myself to learning the science and beauty behind the different ways to transform glass. I continue to learn from it and from teaching others how to appreciate and experience this beautiful creative art form.

Sign-up and hang on for a fun, hands-on adventure into the creative world of class!"

What have you learned from teaching?

"There is no such thing as 'I'm not creative but...' because all living beings are creative, inventive, or resourceful in their own ways.

» A finished 'beginner piece' is more rewarding than an unfinished 'masterpiece.'

» Students and mistakes usually make the best teachers.
